Report in full

- 1.1 The Centre for Governance & Scrutiny (CfGS) has identified the following four principles which underpin effective scrutiny:
 - Providing a constructive ‘critical friend’ challenge to the Cabinet as well as outside agencies.
 - Reflect the voice and concerns of the public and its communities.
 - Be led by independent people who take responsibility for their role.
 - Drive improvement in public services.
 - 1.2 There are three further components of good scrutiny and good governance which support and reinforce these principles. These are:-
 - Accountability – where responsibility for services and decisions is clear and those holding responsibility can and are answerable for success and failure;
 - Transparency – publication of information relating to services and decisions to allow people to hold decision-makers to account;
 - Involvement – whereby a range of stakeholders can play an active role in holding to account and influencing policy.
 - 1.3 The relationship between Cabinet and Scrutiny is governed in part by law and in part by the Council’s Constitution. To assist Members of the Council’s Scrutiny Committees, all Members of the Cabinet and Senior Officers who attend before a Scrutiny Committee, a Protocol has been produced at Appendix A to this report. This Protocol provides guidance on the various ways in which Members and Senior Officers are required to interact with the Scrutiny Committees to enable the Authority to carry out an effective Scrutiny function. It also sets out the expectations of Members, Senior Officers and the Committee when carrying out those Scrutiny functions.
 - 1.4 Members are invited to consider the draft Protocol and recommend Council to approve the protocol which should be reviewed on an annual basis to ensure it is operating effectively.

Financial implications:

There are no financial implications directly arising from this report.

Legal implications:

The requirement for local authorities in England to establish overview and scrutiny committees is set out in sections 9F to 9FI of the Local Government Act 2000 as amended by the Localism Act 2011. The Government issued Statutory Guidance in relation to Overview and Scrutiny Committees in May 2019. In addition, the Centre for Governance & Scrutiny has issued guidance, both of which have been taken into consideration in the developing of the attached Scrutiny Protocol.
